THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1857.

KENTUCKY RIVER IMPROVEMENTS .- We publish to-day the proceedings of a meeting of the citizens of Frankfort and Franklin county to take measures for the extension of the slack-water improvement of the Kentucky river. One of the richest portions of the whole State is drained by the Kentucky river. Around the upper part of it and beyond the reach of the present improvements on the river are clustered a bevy of the wealthiest counties in the Consequently. We find in the report made to the House of Representatives, at the last session of our State Legislature, from the Committee on Internal Improvements, several allusions to this interesting region of central Kentucky and an urgent recommendation of the extension of the slack-water improvements, as far at least as Groggin's ferry, and the improvement of the upper portion of the river and its principal forks for downward navigation. The report says "the improvements upon the Kentucky river, heretofore made, have not as yet proved profitable, for the simple reason that they were not carried far enough up the stream. The distance from the mouth to the forks of the river is two hundred and thirty-eight miles. The pools now constructed extend but ninety-one and two-tenths miles above the mouth, leaving one hundred and forty-six and eight-tenths miles subject to all the uncertainties and dangers of unimproved navigation. Consequently but little or no trade from above the present slack-water pools is attempted to be carried down the stream."

The counties which border upon the upper part of the Kentucky river comprise an immer productive agricultural district. The report of Col. Mason Brown to the meeting at Frankfort shows that one-fifth of the whole wealth of the State is concentrated in this region. In addition to its agricultural resources, it contains valuable salines, vast quantities of excellent timber, and almost every variety of coal and iron in inexhaustible quantities All these elements of wealth only need means of transportation to render them available. At present they are utterly valueless and unproductive The coal on the upper Kentucky is not surpassed in quantity or variety by that of Pennsylvania, and there can be no doubt that, if the navigation of the Kentucky river was so improved as to admit of the safe and constant transportation even downwards only, the immense natural resources of that whole region would be speedily and fully developed, and the improvements would become not merely remunerative but very profitable.

With these improvements the vast coal-fields upon the Kentucky river would be brought into competition with those of Pennsylvania in supplying all the markets upon the Mississippi river and the Ohio below the mouth of the Kentucky. The advantages thus to be derived by the State are almost incalculable. Pennsylania receives forty millions of dollars a year for her coal alone. The demand for this fuel along the Ohio and Mississippi is constantly increasing, and Kentucky only needs internal improvements to render her coal-fields acessible to make her the successful rival of Pennsylvania in this rich and profitable trade.

There is no question that the extension of the slack-water improvements on the Kentucky river will pay a handsome dividend. The bill presented at the last session of our State Legislature provided for the construction of three additional locks, and also for the improvement of the downward navigation of the treaty as amended by the Senate at Washington the upper part of the river. Alluding to the cost and profitableness of the extension, the committee, in their report, say: "The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the coal mines at Cumberland, a distance of over two hundred miles, penetrates a country nothing like so fertile as that bordering on the upper Kentucky. This canal relies almost exclusively upon coal for its tolls, and it has been constructed at its tolls, and it has been constructed at a cost of more than sixty thousand dollars per mile. The slack-water improvements of the Kentucky river will be infinitely superior to any canal and will cost three additional locks for which appropriations are very considerably lessened.

proposed in the bill presented will extend the slackwater pools fifty-three and nine-tenths miles above the present improvements, and will reach to Groggin's ferry, making in all one hundred and fortyfive miles from the mouth of the river."

The construction of this work is vastly important to a very considerable portion of our State. It will benefit a region full of natural riches, which cannot conveniently be reached at the present time by railroads. Until its resources are so fully developed and its productions are so greatly increased that the slack-water accommodation will not suffice for their transportation, it must depend upon the river for that purpose.

We are gratified to observe this movement on the part of the people of that part of the State, and we hope it will be steadily continued until the accomplishment of the object in view. It will have been seen that this work is included among those to be advanced by the extension of State aid to internal improvements, and we hope that proposition will for this reason find favor and warm support among the people of the counties bordering upon the upper Kentucky, who are to be immensely benefited by the completion of the slack-water improvements of that river.

THE DALLAS-CLARENDON TREATY.—The amendments with which this treaty was finally ratified by the Senate are said to be substantially "a designation of the boundaries of the Mosquito territory which shall be under the joint Protectorate, and the striking out of the clause which provided that slavery should not be introduced into the Bay Islands.' If this statement is correct, and it probably is, we do not quite share the confidence of some of our contemporaries in England's prompt and cheerful acceptance of the amended treaty. The striking out of the anti-slavery clause in the treaty between England and Honduras may be all very well in itself, though entirely superfluous, but its acceptableness to England, and the policy of insisting upon it whether it is acceptable to her or not, is a very different thing.

It is true we claimed in the discussion which arose under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty that the Bay Islands belonged to Honduras and not to England, and might therefore with some show of propriety object, if it were worth the trouble, that England should impose any restrictions at all upon those Islands in her treaty of cession with Honduras; but it is equally true that England from the first strenuously denied not only the correctness but the pertinency of this claim of ours, and finally treated independently with Honduras as her only rightful antagonist in the question. She may accordingly assert with some degree of reason that when she satisfied the claim of Honduras she superseded that of the United States; and that whatever conditions Honduras may have chosen to accept in the treaty of cession was her own business and not ours. This England may say without any great violence to the merits of the case, and she will be very likely to do it.

The substance of the matter in a practical point of view is very simple. England claimed the Bay Islands by the right of conquest and uninterrupted occupancy. We traversed her claim, under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, asserting that the Bay Islands belonged to Honduras, and were consequently within the prohibited limits of that convention. Protesting firmly and pointedly against the justness of this assertion, England, in order to relieve herself of a perplexing and unprofitable subject, entered at once into direct and independent negotiations graciously indicates the rank of the poet: with Honduras, which resulted in the cession of the Bay Islands to that State by the treaty of last August-thus satisfying our claim without technically abating her own. The arrangement was a very ingenious and happy one. We got all we wanted, and England rid herself of a troublesome question, without the slightest detriment to her honor. This portion of the Central American imbroglio seemed fortunately solved, and the Dallas-Clarendon treaty, negotiated expressly to solve the rest of the difficulnse, rich, and ty, simply recognized the solution as a fixed fact. whole thing, for it amounts to this or nothing, if What a mortifying misconception he has escaped. Great Britain does not consent to strike out from her treaty with Honduras a clause which excludes the introduction of slavery into the Islands which she ceded by that instrument. Not content with the practical satisfaction of our demands, we must insist upon humbling England by exacting the confession that she never had a shadow of right to the Bay Islands, but was a sneaking and insolent usurper from the beginning. Having triumphed over her claims, we seem anxious to triumph over her spirit also. She has lost everything but honor in the case, and we appear to be in hot pursuit of that.

We are greatly mistaken if England will submit to any further concessions on this point, and we do not think it the part either of fairness or discretion to attempt to exact them. The clause in dispute is of no earthly importance to us, and, if it were, we can't expunge it without requiring Great Britain to reconsider a solemn treaty which she has concluded on her own responsibility with an independent State, and thus to drink the lees of a cup of which (notwithstanding the stupidity of our diplomatists) she has already quaffed so much of the bitter liquor. Would this be wise or proper? Are we to tolerate no deviation from the strict line of our utmost de mands? Do gentlemen think that in a great international settlement like the one in hand the conces sions are to be all on one side, and that either party can expect to realize the last tittle of what it fan cies to be its technical rights? If they do, they are utterly unfit to be entrusted with affairs of such vas moment. We shall of course be well pleased if England finds it consistent with her honor to accept but, if she cannot, as is not unlikely, we hope the treaty will be finally ratified without the obnoxious amendment. It is certainly to be regretted that the success of the treaty should be endangered and the two countries kept still longer in a state of feverish suspense for the sake of so very paltry a crotchet.

RAILROAD OPEN TO ST. LOUIS .- The Ohio and Mississippi Railroad has been completed eastwardly as far as Mitchell, at the crossing of the New Albany & Salem Railroad. Trains will be run regunot more than four thousand dollars per mile. The larly, and the time between this city and St. Louis [For the Louisville Journal.] ONE YEAR AGO.

We parted love! 'twas in the summer time, When fair young roses lightly ope'd their leaves, And each bright flower-bell sweetly rang its chime; 'Twas ere the garn'ring in of yellow sheaves-'Twas just one year ago.

Night shadows slowly crept about our path. As crept the shadows o'er our loving hearts, And darkness spread around her like a pall; The darkness which a coming grief imparts, Came just one year ago.

I might not tell thee of my boding fears, So ever hopeful was thy slightest tone, So che ked my tears where well, too well, I knew That evermore my path must be alone, From one sad year ago.

I felt thy farewell kiss upon my lips, Each tone and look sank deep within my heart; The memory is as dear to me as life— And yet it makes the bitter tear-drops start, Since one long year ago.

Our paths diverged - I might not see thee more, But in the garnered memories of the past I cherish thoughts of what thou wert of yore, Scarce less than angel when I met thee last One long sad year ago.

The mystery of Eternity is solved-Forever found—the depths of peace and rest— Forever lost—earth's sorrows and its tears— Why do I mourn that thou art now more blest Than one sad year ago

The birds now chant a requiem o'er thy grave, Thy struggling spirit is forever free; Beloved one! canst thou look from thy bright home To earth? Look down, still blessing, loving me As just one year ago. HATTIE HEATH.

WESTMINSTER REVIEW .- The current number of this free and masterly Quarterly opens with a review of the poet Young. The reviewer handles the poet without gloves, but perhaps on this very account gets all the nearer to the marrow of his subject. Whatever at all events may be thought of the justness of his treatment, its consummate vigor and finish will be universally conceded. "The Capabilities and Disabilities of Women" are discussed in the second article with fullness, boldness, and power. The third article is on "English Law: Its Oppression and Confusion." It is an exceedingly able paper, not unworthy of Sir Samuel Romilly himself. The writer portrays some of the most prominent defects of the existing English Law, but despairs of their correction until the people are more fairly represented in the House of Commons. He would have Parliamentary reform as the condition of legal reform. The article, notwithstanding this somewhat extreme exaction, is eminently practical in its spirit. A clear and comprehensive account of the "State of Parties in Italy since 1848" is given in the fourth article, from the most advanced standpoint of liberal politics. But for the terse and thoroughly English style, it might have been written by Kossuth or Mazzini. The projected "Revision of the English Bible" is next examined and commended in an article of remarkable force and intelligence. The seventh article is an admirable discussion of the phenomena of "Boiling Water;" and the eighth and last is a learned and attractive notice of "The Mysteries of Cefalonia." The survey of ontemporary literature is even more interesting and omplete than usual.

The St. Louis Democrat of Tuesday says:

The river is falling quite rapidly at this point, with about nine feet to Cairo. The Die Vernon, from Keokuk, was loaded to 5½ feet, and rubbed bottom frequently; once so hard as to be made to swing partly round. She reports the river clear of ice. The Illinois is considered open to Lasalle, and roats are leaving for that point. The Missouri is rising slowly. The Alvin Adams, from Louisville, had over four hundred passengers. hundred passengers.

For New Orleans .- The Antelope, Capt. Brown will leave for New Orleans to-day. She is a large boat, has excellent accommodations, and careful officers. Mr. Beeler, the chief clerk, is very attentive to passengers, and will see all well provided for.

We are indebted to Mr. Beeler, the attentive clerk of the Antelope, for late papers and copies of the manifest and me morandum.

The Pete Whetstone, and the Landis, also, leave for New Orleans to-day.

The Superior is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day, the Emma Dean is the Carrollton packet, the La-J. B. Ford for Wheeling.

The Wm. Knox, Capt. White, leave for the Tennessee river to-day.

The splendid steamer David White, Capt. McGill, passed Memphis yesterday, crowded with cabin and deck passengers. She will arrive on Saturday, and start on her return trip on Monday.

The Vixen, from Pittsburg for St. Louis, which passed here yesterday, was unfortunate. While sparring through The Sisters, with her steam capstan, a line slipped or parted, breaking the legs of two deck passengers, who were left at Wheeling-Capt. Mason having furnished them with means to defray their expenses while there. Above Maysville, on Monday, a deck hand fell overboard and was drowned.

New Steamer Union .- We have never seen a more beautiful boat than that which bears this name. She was built for Capt. Roberts, for the Green river, Evansville and Louisville trade. Her hull, which is a perfect model of symmetry, was built by Mr. T. G. Nadal, who has in the last two years established for himself a high reputation. The Union is 148 feet long, has 24 feet beam, and 5 feet hold. She has two boilers 24 feet long and 40 inches in diameter, two engines, 5 feet stroke and 15 inch cylinders. She draws but 17 inches light. She has twelve staterooms very comfortably furnished. The machinery was built by South, Lent & Shipman, of New Albany, and her cabin was furnished by Mr. Devinney. The Union lies below Fifth street, and is up for Green siver.

New Boat .- Capt. Cannon has contracted with Messrs. Dowerman & Humphreys, of New Albany, for a new steamer for the New Orleans and Providence trade. The machinery is to be built by South, Lent & Shipman. She is to be 260 feet long, and in every respect a first class passenger and freight packet.

THE RAT EPIDEMIC IN WASHINGTON .- The National Hotel at Washington has been closed in consequence of the alarming sickness produced in that establishment by the presence of a large number of establishment by the presence of a large number of poisoned rats in the water tank, cisterns, &c. Among others, the following persons were seriously affected: The President, still complaining; Glancy Jones and Robert J. Walker; John L. Dawson, of Pa.; Senators Fessenden and Bayard, with some members of the family of the latter; Anson Burlingame and lady, the latter continuing very ill: Hon, Mr. Hall lady, the latter continuing very ill; Hon. Mr. Hall and lady, of Mass., Mrs. H. having been taken to the cars in a litter; Senator James, R. I., and family: a Mr. Lenox, of Cleveland, is dead; Simonton and his family were badly affected, and upon the return of the latter he had again somewhat relapsed; O. B. Matteson; Mr. Appleton, of the Union, continues very ill of this affection, but is recovering.

Besides these there were large numbers, hundreds, who carried off the effects of a few days' residence here to all parts of the country in the form of a slow and consuming fever, a burning and restlessness of the intestines, with all the other symptoms in their system of the action of a slow and mineral poison.

WHO OWNS DRED SCOTT .- The recent important decision of the United States Supreme Court returns Dred Scott and his family to slavery, and he is now the property of the wife of Dr. Chaffee, the Repub lican member of Congress from the Springfield (Mass.) district. The facts in the case are simply these: Some years since, Dr. Chaffee, then a widower, married the widow of Dr. Emerson, of Missouri, who had died, leaving to his wife and only daughter a considerable slave property. Among these slaves were Dred Scott and his family; and as Dr. Emerson, in the performance of his duties as a surgeon in the United States Army, had carried this family into Illinois. they, on his death, claimed their freedom. Illinois, they, on his death, claimed their freedom, and brought a suit to enforce it. This suit, thus brought, was defended by the administrator of the estate on behalf, and with the consent of the wife of Dr. Chaffee and her daughter, who were the heirs at jority were inexorable. law. The decision of the Bench that Dred Scott was not a citizen of the United States, and could not sue in the United States Court, has remanded him and his family to the chattlehood of Mrs. Chaffee.

HEAVY HIGHWAY ROBBERY IN CINCINNATI.-On Monday night Mr. Solomon Wolf, a merchant of Springfield, Ohio, was met on Twelfth street by a couple of men, one of whom drew forth a weapon, probably a slung shot, struck him a violent blow on the head with it, which felled him to the ground, and rendered him insensible for some time, during which interval they rifled him of a pocket-book containing $8,050, mostly in large bills.

BARDSTOWN RAILROADS .- We understand that work on the Bardstown Branch Railroad is being prosecuted with a great deal of energy. Three or four miles have been graded, and the entire line is under contract. It will not be long before we are in direct communication by steam with the handsome capitol of Nelson county seat.

BANK OF EAST TENNESSEE.—The Knoxville Mercury says: "Twenty-five cents on the dollar are offered now for the issues of the Bank of East Tennese. The parties purchasing either intend holding them, or it may be buy with them property which the assignees of the bank are authorized to sell."

AFFAIRS AT WASHINGTON.—The very intelligent Washington correspondent of the New York Courier and Enquirer furnishes the following items, in a letter under date of March 14th:

The President, it is understood, has invited Mr. The President, it is understood, has invited Mr. Cisco to remain in charge of the Treasury Office in New York. This is not a violation of the rule announced last week, against re-appointments. Mr. Cisco's commission does not expire for a year, and he has charge of $17,000,000 in gold. The bonds of the Deputy Treasurer are for $1,000,000 and no man fit for the place, or who can give the security, is a competor for the office. Mr. Cisco is willing to serve out his term, but will not accept a renewal of his commission.

Mr. Aikens and Mr. Pickens of S. C. are com-his commission.

Mr. Aikens and Mr. Pickens, of S. C., are competitors for a full mission, probably that to St. Petersburg. One of them will be successful.

Mr. Lyon, of Richmond, Va., will receive the mission to Madrid. Mr. L. is brother-in-law to Gov. Wise. Whether as bitterly hostile to the continuance of the Union as Mr. Wise promised to be in the event of Col. Fremont's election, I am not advised. Mr. Lyon is an "Old Whig."

The President has very recently given notice of the intended recall of all Ministers and Charges.—
This is very important, both to gentlemen in and

Mr. Cobb is said to have appointed his cousin, Hon. Philip Clayton, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Clayton has been Second Auditor, and as a whig was appointed by Gen. Taylor, having been continued in office through family influence. Mr. C., however, is undoubtedly a good officer. The only thing singular in regard to the appointment is, that it is an evidence of the way in which nepotism corrupts "pure Democracy." But your readers will please consider what I have said of Mr. Fuller recorded, and something adequate will yet be done for him.

Their screams and yells under the operation are savage beyond description, and it is a wonder that their sight is not entirely destroyed. We have never known, however, a case where any permanent injury was inflicted in this way. Adult offenders are sometimes subjected to a still severer punishment. They are made fast on the roof of the house and thoroughly smoked with pepper.

Mr. R. Postans, writing to the London Times, gives the following description of a natural fish kettle in the island of St. Paul:

Perhaps the chief reason why St. Paul does not need a hospice is, that it possesses a natural and unfailing supply of provisions, which seems to have been entirely forgotten by those who advocate the erection of a hospice there. It is, as you are doubt-less aware, a volcanic island, on the side of which there is a large deep lagoon, evidently the crater of an exhausted burning mountain. One side of this circular basin is broken away, and through a narrow throat or entrance the sea ebbs and flows. The opening is about pistol-shot wide. In this lake, which is about two miles in circumference, the water is as smooth as a mill-pond. In rowing round the exhausted crater I found smoke rising amid the stones on its beautiful beach in various places, and on landing I found the water close to the shore so hot that I could not bear my hand in it. The temnot that I could not bear my hand in it. The temperature of air was 73 degrees by thermometer, which on being plunged into the water ascended to 200, and on repeating the experiment in various places it rose to a similar elevation, and even to the boiling point. I should mention that there is a narrow belt of sea in the lake which may be styled "No fishes water," where it is too hot for them, but it extends only a few yards from the hot water, so that it is possible for a man to catch a fish in the bow of a moderately long whale-boat and walk aft and drop it into hot water and cook it. Vlamming, the Dutch navigator, who visited St. Paul's in 1697, mentions this fact, and if any of your readers should feel this fact, and if any of your readers should feel disposed to doubt the truth of this statement, I beg to refer them to Horsburgh's Sailing Directory to the East for a description of this remarkable lagoon. THE GREAT REFRACTING TELESCOPE AT CAM-BRIDGE.—It is claimed that the great refracting telescope at Cambridge, Mass., is the most perfect instrument of its kind that the art of man has ever Instrument of its kind that the art of man has ever produced, having but one rival, viz: that at the im-perial central observatory of Russia. The extreme diameter of the object-glass of the Cambridge teles-cope is 15½ English inches; the effective aperture is 14 and 95-100ths inches; the solar focus is 22 feet six inches; the distance from the outer surface of the object-glass to the point of intersection of the declination and polar axus, is 13 feet and 7 inches; and from the same point to the solar focus of the object-glass it is 8 feet and 11 inches. The centre of motion of the telescope is 12 feet and 9 inches above the floor of the dome. The polar axis of the instrument is of steel; its length, from the end-bearing of ment is or steer; its length, from the end-paring of its lower pivot to its junction with the bed of the declination-nxis is 3 feet 10 inches, and its bearings are 2 feet 8 inches apart. The friction on the upper bearing of the axis is relieved by two friction-rollers, 7 inches in diameter, attached to the short arm of a lever, which moves on a steel pin passing through it below the axle. The longer arm of the passes through the upright part of the cradle, arm of the le supports at a forked extremity a powerful balance-weight, which may be adjusted as desired. The de-fining capacity of the object-glass is such that pow-ers of from 700 to 1,200 are habitually used in the measurement of double stars, and on rare occasions a power of 2,000 may be used to advantage. With this power the telescope has shown well the discs of Neptune and of the satilletes of Jupiter.

Babylon.—Petrus Valensis, an Italian traveler, visited the ruins of Babylon in 1616, and describes a tower such as that recently reported to have been re-discovered, but he believed it to be a tower built by one of the late Princes of Babylon, and not the famous old Tower of Babel, the building of which is recorded to have been the occasion of a confusion. is recorded to have been the occasion of a confusion of tongues, and the source of the various languages

Babylon was one of the wonders of the East. Its walls were 87 feet thick and 350 feet high, and were 60 miles in extent. The Tower or Temple of Belus stood in the middle of it, in which was a golden image of Baal, forty feet high. It was famous for the cultivation of the science of astronomy at an early date; the astronomers made their observations from the top of the high tower, in a very clear atmos-phere. Alexander the Great took it; and Calis-

the top of the high tower, in a very clear atmosphere. Alexander the Great took it; and Calisthenes, the philosopher, who accompanied him, states that astronomical records had been made in Babylon from 115 years after the Deluge.

The grandeur of the palaces and buildings, and the known wealth of old Babel, rendered it for a long period the centre of Asiatic civilization and power. But its walls have crumbled, and for centuries the very Arab of the desert has shunned its ruins because of the wild beasts that haunt them, and the numerous venomous screents that make and the numerous venomous serpents that make their abode in palaces, which were once the abode of kings .- Scientific American.

A STUBBORN STRIPLING .- "Once upon a time," a A STUBBORN STRIPLING.— Once upon a time, a big, strapping, awkward youth, fresh from Vermont, entered the Dummer Academy at Byfield, Mass., for a little share of erudition, which is doled out at this temple of Minerva at economical prices. At that time—we know not how it is at the present time—the boys and girls were kept in one apartment, only the middle aisle separating them. One day, this Vermont stripling, who had just been helping one of the girls through a hard sum—he was cute on cyphering—thought it no more than fair that he should take toll for his valuable services; accordingly he threw his stalwart arm around the rosy damsel and gave her a sly but rousing smack which startled the whole assembly. "Jedediah Tower, come up here!" roared out the preceptor.

The delinquent appeared, his face glowing with blushes like a redhot warmingpan, and looking as silly as a ninny. "Hold out your hand, sir!" said the pedagogue. "I'll teach you not to act thus in this institution."

The huge paw was extended in a horizontal line toward the instructor, who surveyed its broad surface with a mathematical eye, calculating how many strokes of his small ferule it would take to the large number of square inches which it contained.

"Jedediah," at length, he said, "this is the first

"Jedediah," at length, he said, "this is the first time that you have been called up for any delinquency; now, sir, if you will say that you are sorry for what you have done, I will let you off this time without punishment."
"Sorry," exclaimed the youngster, striking an attitude of pride and indignation; "sorry! No, sir! I am not. And I will do jest so again of I hev a chance. So, put on, old feller, jest as hard as you like. By the jumpin' Jehosiphat! I'd stand here and let you lick me till kingdom kum afore I'd be sorry at that, by thunder, I would!" Boston Post sorry at that-by thunder, I would!"-Boston Post.

POTATOES A DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLE. - We laughed "consumedly" at the narration of a gentle-man (himself a Democrat, we believe), who attended a Democratic meeting in Pike county a few days nce. The object was to appoint delegates to the outh-all-over Gubernatorial June Convention; and, while the committee were out writing resolutions, a sturdy old farmer rose and addressed the chair:

"Mr. President, mout I say a word?" asked he.

"The meeting will be proud to hear from you,
"Mr. Subseil"

"Well, Mr. President, enduren of the time the ommittee's out, couldn't you tell us all how you've added your 'tuters?"

There was a great laugh at Subsoil's expense, bu his question involved a matter of more practical importance than such as often come before political as follows:

By all means avoid Germany, which is a dreary land to winter in; after Italy, which is dismal enough. The people, on one side, and that the most obvious, are dogged, obstinate, wrong-headed, and not seldom swineish and immoral. You read their philosophers and poets, contemplate, their prodigies of learning, hear their music, and fancy an admirable, perfection seeking, high-souled race. But they give you sauerkraut for dinner, tobacco for supper, and put you to bed in a coffin under a feather tick, to doze away the night in stifling fumes, dreamand put you to bed in a coffin under a feather tick, to doze away the night in stiffing fumes, dreaming of a vast swine pasture, extending all the way from the Rhine to the Alps. Humanity exists here, certainly, with all its elements, and in a high state of development, too; yet life is chilled with fogs, suffocated with smoke, soured with cabbage, and drenched with beer. Sour sauces are, in fact, as Teutonic as bitter ale. True, they are a steady going people. They make things to last forever, but are forever making them. Your neck is safe on their railways, and so it is on a donkey.

The sorriest pictures in Wilhelm Meister are faithful transcripts—of the beau monde, as of the menu peuple. Cicisbeism is quite as prevalent as in Italy, where it is less philosophical and more decent. The "elective affinities" have the freest scope in the politest circles; with whom morality is aesthetic, and litest circles; with whom morality is aesthetic, religion "one with the perfect and beautiful." Thus finely organized souls can exist only in freedom which must suffer no restraint; for love needs no rewhich must suffer no restraint; for love needs not restrictions, being a law, unto itself. As all virtue is from within, the external relations are of little consequence, and may be superseded, in obedience to the higher law, without sullying the purity of the eme shone seele. This practical transcendentalism is everywhere visible in fashionable life. Matrimony is called a constraint that may be "thorografing that everywhere visible in fashionable life. Matrimony is a vulgar convention, that may be "honored in the breach." They tell us of a fashionable lady who played whist a whole evening with her three husbands—two of course having been repudiated according to law, in favor of "the friend of the family"—the cavaliere servente of Italy. Heaven be praised for the "prudery" of our matchless American women! May they never be indoctrinated in the higher law!

Nor is the boasted University education morally better for the ruder sex. The young men drink.

Nor is the boasted University education moranic better for the ruder sex. The young men drink, smoke, fight duels, and philosophize the soul out of man, and God out of the universe. One in a score, perhaps, becomes a man and a scholar, as well in spite of the University as by its aid; but thousands return home maimed in body and soul. Let no ambitious American father sould his sex here to combitious American father send his son here to com-plete his education. The chances are altogether against him. His faith is scarcely less exposed than his morals. Think of the confusion of tongues! The most intrepid statist would not venture to esti-mate the jarring theories and philosophies on every mate the jarring theories and philosophies on every possible question. In the absence of any sovereign authority, every man teaches "that which seemeth good in his own eyes," and the temple resounds with the jargon. A new interpretation of an old text makes a new school; the critic wins that eminence by a fresh paradox, the historian by a citation, the romancer by a phrase of love, or the unexpected effect of a murder; and each claims the diploma for discovery. What a war of dilemmas, metaphors, and citations! The old scholastic strifes were nothing to it. We may flatter ourselves that were nothing to it. We may flatter ourselves that the age for mere logical pastimes has gone by, but attempts to reach the "absolute" by abstracting the laws of logic, and representing them as reauties, through the dialectic subtlety of words, are as ripe as ever. Hegel's hardihood of abstraction survives in many a disciple. in many a disciple.

MARRIAGE IN THE CARS.—We copy the following from the Springfield (Mass.) Republican of March

The train from this city to Brattleboro, yesterday afternoon, was signalized by the marriage of a loving couple, who, by a series of mishaps, were forced to make use of such a time and place for the consummation of their long-desired union. The bridegroom lives in Illinois, the bride at Whately, and at her home the marriage should have occurred on Monday evening; but when the evening came no bridegroom or clergyman came with it, both being left over by the cars—the one at Springield and the other at Northampton. The next morning, the unhappy lover hastened to Whately by the first cars, and, as his stay in the East was limited, it was finally agreed to proceed to Bellows Falls the same afternoon, be married there, and from thence continue the journey for the West and for life. At the depot the waiting pair met the delinquent pastor stepping from the very train they were to take, and without hesitation it was decided that he should go on with them and perform the ceremony in the cars. on with them and perform the ceremony in the cars. This was done to the eminent satisfaction of the parties and the great entertainment of the other passen-

YOUTHFUL INDISCRETION .- The Philadelphia cor respondent of the Baltimore American says:

Considerable interest is excited among the friends Considerable interest is excited among the friends and relatives of a certain Miss Jaquett, both in this city and Chester county. The lady in question has made application for a divorce. The circumstances of the case are peculiar. Miss Jaquett, about a year ago, was at a party with a certain Mr. Bachtell, where the one challenged the other to get marriep—by way of a joke. The banter was accepted; the gentleman and lady jumped into a vehicle, posted off to a neighboring clergyman—the knot was ed off to a neighboring clergyman—the knot was tied; but the lady, having shown her spirit, declared she would carry the joke no further. Both parties soon found they had gone too far. Mr. Bachtell was a gentleman of property in Ohio. He could no longer make title to his estate. The young lady, who reigned as a village belle, soon found she had been trifling with a serious matter. It was an act of youthful indiscretion for which the law had provided no remedy.

EXCITEMENT IN DELAWARE—Unsuccessful Attempt to Capture Fugitive Slaves.— On Tuesday morning last our town was thrown into much commotion in consequence of an almost successful attempt to capture eight runaway slaves, for which rewards are of the state of the thousand delays. It fered of upwards of three thousand dollars. It seems that sometime during Monday a man came to Sheriff Green with the information that he had discovered eight runaway negroes, and had made arrangements to have them in Dover that night, the negroes supposing they were to be concealed in town until the next night and then wend their way upwards. Accordingly, about 4 o'clock on Tuesday morning the man and the negroes appeared at the jail. While the Sheriff was dressing they all entered the jail, went up stairs in the dark, found an open room and went into it, but there being no fire they came out into the entry.

By this time the sheriff had dressed and followed them up stairs, supposing that he would find them in one of the rooms and that all he would have to do would be to close and bolt the door. On discovering that they were all in the entry, the sheriff returned to his room for his revolver. The negroes, anxious to get to a fire, followed him down and were all in the sheriff's room, where his wife and children were asleep, before he could seize his revolver. By this time the suspicions of one of the negroes were aroused, and with the exclamation "he didn't like de looks ob de place; I'se gwine out o'dis;" he bolted for the window. The sheriff seized him and while engaged in the struggle the rest of the negroes burst through another window and escaped, first scattering the fire over the floor, the man standing trembling in the door like the veriest craven hearted coward. turned to his room for his revolver. The negroes

Six of them were tracked to a house in Camden, but the officers could not enter for the want of sufficient warrant, which the magistrates the want of sufficient warrant, which the magistrates said they had no power to give. On Tuesday night, it is currently reported, the six were conveyed to the house of a man residing near Willow Grove, whence they were forwarded up the country by the forest roads, or rather on the underground railroad. The other two were seen, shortly after the escape from the jail, going out of Dover in a northerly direction. The fault of the escape is attributable entirely to the hoggishness of the man who tolled the negroes into Dover. Greedy to get the whole reward, he would not permit a small force to share with him, and he got none. The negroes were all armed with cudgels and pistols. The rewards offered for their apprehension vary from $300 to $400 each.—Dover (Del.) Reporter, March 13.

A Perfumed Breath.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath when, by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice, would not only render it sweet but leaves the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty-cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tun, pimples, and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet ac night and morning. A PERFUMED BREATH .- What lady or gentleman

POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Thursday, March 19. Another blank day in the court's calendar. No cases for adjudication. No fees for the officials. No clients for the hungry lawyers. No scandal for the gaping bystanders. No items for the reporters. Morality is becoming chronic in Louisville. Decency commands a premium, and the law is respected. Happy city. The only case this morning was the trial of an ordinance warrant against Armistead Buckner for obstructing the streets with his carts. Fined $5.

We are glad that the court intends enforcing this rule. Most of those arraigned plead ignorance, but without cause, for daily mention has been made in the city papers of this offence and the punishment.

Advices from St. Thomas state that there were a number of so-called Walker's men there who had availed themselves of British protection to desert their colors. KENTUCKY RIVER NAVIGATION .- At an adjourned meeting of the citizens of Frankfort and Franklin county on Saturday, the Hon. Mason Brown, from the committee appointed at a previous meeting, made the following report, which was unanimously adopted, viz:

Your committee respectfully report: That the publications in several parts of the State, directing public attention to the completion of the Locks and Dams on the Kentucky river, deserve the serious consideration of the citizens of the river counties, as also of the State at large. Such an improvement, by penetrating and bringing into action and immediate availability the immense coal and mineral resources of that region, would not only add greatly to the wealth and resources of the State, but also be of incalculable value to a large portion of her citizens, who are every year becoming more and more dependent upon that region for coal, one of the first necessities of life. But this is not all. Those vast resources of coal, iron, minerals, salt, lumber, &c., now locked up in the mountains, would give thrifty prosperity and wealth, by their export, to that fair but neglected region of our State, and corresponding advantages to the consumers below; while the upward and downward navigation would respectively bear to each region all the comforts and necessaries of life. We do not regard it necessary at present to go into a detail of the benefits that would result from such a work; nor, indeed, to discuss the best mode of its accomplishment. We can at present only respond to the sentiments which have been elsewhere expressed, and signify our willingness to unite cordially in any matured and practicable scheme which may be proposed. But at the same time it may not be out of place to state a few facts bearing on the question, which merit consideration.

The Kentucky river, from the mouth to the middle fork, measures 275 miles. From Lock No. 5 to the same point, it measures 275 miles. From Lock No. 5 to the same point, it measures 175 miles. Since the experience acquired in the construction and use of the former locks, it is stated by those who are supposed to be well-advised on the subject that nine more locks will complete the navigation, and that they can be constructed at a cost not exceeding $50,000 cach. That they can be easily rendered, by proper construction, water-tight, and thus afford a continued navigation at all seasons of the year when the river is not frozen. Thus a cost not exceeding $540,000 will complete and make available the whole navigation from the mouth up, a distance of 275 miles—making the cost of the improvement, now necessary, less than the cost of an ordinary turnpike from the mouth to the Three Forks.

Let us mow look at the recources of those counties above, which border on the river, and see from the Auditor's report their wealth and extent of territory. The amount of property as actually valued and taxed, and the number of acres, are thus given in the report of the Auditor for the past year:

Andonson	40 007 070
Anderson	.$2,095,956	106,385
Breathitt	. 640,155
Carroll	. 2.623,932	74.109
Clarke	8,416,340	187.831
Estill	1,310,544	199,451
Fayette	20,242,039
Franklin	. 5,306,077
Garrard	5,411,196	143,045
Henry	6,860,364
Jessamine	6,038,830
Madison	10,767,020
Mercer	5,361,013
Owen	3,436,795	212,162
Owsley	685,514	220,822
Woodford	8,841,607	120,823
435 275 -	-	-

Total.....$88,037,382 2,413,354 Here then we have eighty-eight million thirty-seven thousand three hundred and eighty-two dollars of proper ty taken at its taxed value, and two million four hundred and thirteen thousand three hundred and fifty-four acres of land, all dependent on the river as consumers or producers.

and three modesand three mindred and fity-four acres of land, all dependent on the river as consumers or producers.

Is it not remarkable that this immense wealth and extended territory have not already achieved the desired improvement? Is it not strange that so large a section of the State, equal in wealth to more than one-fifth of the aggregate wealth of the whole State, the aggregate wealth of the whole State, as reported by the Auditor, being $407, 325, 445), have neglected so long in accomplishing all that can be desired, at no greater an outlay than would be incurred in making an ordinary turnpike road.

That it will ultimately be accomplished no man can doubt. That it should be speedily done, both interest and necessity are hourly teaching us.

In this expose we have said nothing of many other counties adjacent but not touched by the river, but which nevertheless are in some measure dependent on and all of which would be greatly benefited by the improvement. All that is necessary is that the work should be approached with the proper spirit and energy, and it seems impossible but that it can be accomplished.

We think that it would be premature to suggest any mode for the accomplishment of this work. This should be left to the matured consideration of a convention to be held at a suitable time and place, by delegates to be chosen by those counties who are interested, and such convention should determine on the character of a charier, if undertaken by a company, and of such other aid as can be given to the enterprise.

The committee therefore report the following resolutions:

taken by a company, and of such other and as can be accepted to the enterprise.

The committee therefore report the following resolutions:
1. Resolved, That the citizens of this county will cordially unite with the other counties in taking all proper measures for the prosecution of the work, and that they will send delegates to a convention for that purpose.
2. Resolved, That Lexington be suggested as the place, and the 2d Monday in August next as the time for holding the convention, and that the other counties be requested to said delegates to the same.

and the 2d Monday in August measure the convention, and that the other counties be requested to send delegates to the same.

2. Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting appoint ten delegates for that purpose, with power to fill any vacancies that may occur in their body.

4. Resolved, That the editors of the Commonwealth and Yeoman newspapers be requested to publish these proceedings; and that such other papers as feel an interest in the subject be requested to give them an insertion.

The chairman, under the third resolution, appointed the following gentlemen as delegates to the convention, viz: Mason Brown, John A. Holton, D. S. Crockett, A. G. Hodges, Wan, E. Ashmore, A. W. Dudley, Scott Brown, Samuel Steele, Jacob Swigert, and John P. Reading.

On metion, the meeting then adjourned.

E. F. NUTTALL, Chairman.

UNION BANK OF TENNESSEE .- The Nashville Banner says:

We have been very much surprised to learn that the late controversy upon the subject of the of the Union Bank and certain Free Banks and Brokers, which arose from the drawing of considerable amounts of coin from the former by the latter, has given rise to some doubts in the minds of persons interior of the State in regard to the solvency of the Union Bank. We say we have been surprised to hear this, for we had supposed that the ability of that institution was better understood, and the sagaacity and reliability of its managers better apprecia d. We can assure our readers, however, that the heed feel no uneasiness in regard to this institution. Her notes are as good as ever they were, and the late run made upon two of her branches by brokers, has not in the least affected her solvency. We trust the ungrounded fears of the timid will therefore be allayed, and no one will be foolishly led into sacrifices from such absurd reports.

THE DALLAS-CLARENDON TREATY .- General J. Watson Webb writes as follows to the New York

I have been permitted to examine carefully the alterations made by the Senate in its conditional ratiincation of the Dallas treaty; and I have no hesita-tion in saying, that they are such as will be very cheerfully acquiesced in by England. No one of the changes recommended affects in any way the prin-ciples upon which the treaty is based; and those articles which relate to questions that have heretofore produced disagreement, remain untouched. I congratulate, very sincerely, the whole country upon this most satisfactory termination of every question pending between Great Britain and the United States.

A MURDER MOST FOUL .- Friday afterno citizens of East Hamburgh were thrown into the greatest consternation by the startling intelligence that a wealthy and respected citizen had been shot by a neighbor. About two o'clock Friday, Daniel Albert was driving along the road past the house of James Getty, when he came out with a shot gun, approached quite near to Mr. Albert, and, without speaking, discharged one barrel of his gun, the charge taking effect in the groin. Not disabled, and to prevent the firing of the other barrel, Albert sprang upon Getty, and in the scuffle that ensued, the remaing charge went off, blowing off Albert's thumb and loding in his other thigh.

These men were both wealthy farmers, and a feud citizens of East Hamburgh were thrown into the

These men were both wealthy farmers, and a feud had existed between them for years, growing out of a variety of circumstances which it is not proper, pending a trial, to relate. Getty is fifty-two years of age, and is the head of a large and highly respectable family. Albert was a bachelor, about the same age, and was a good-natured, jocose man.

Mr. Getty was arrested. He was very much overcome by the news of Albert's death, and wept profusely.—Buffalo Express. These men were both wealthy farmers, and a feud

At her residence, on the night of the 18th instant, Mrs. MARY ASHBY, aged 66 years. In St. Louis, on the 15th inst., Marcellis, youngest son of C. S. and Mary Bergen, aged 2 years and 1 month. IMPORTANT FROM KANSAS.-GOV. GEARY RESIGNED!

Gov. John W. Geary, at Lecompton, on the 4th instant, forwarded his resignation of the Governorship of Kansas to Washington. Having notified M.: Woodson, Secretary of the Territory, of this fact, and having surrendered to that officer the official control, he, in a few days after, quit the country and started for the East. He arrived in this city on Sunday evening, accompanied by his private Secretary, Dr. Gibon. Yesterday afternoon he called at this office, and in the course of a long conversation gave us a complete history of his administration in Kansas.

The Governor states the cause of his resignation to be, the failure of Ex-President Pierce to fulfill the pledges made at the time of his acceptance of the pledges made at the time of his acceptance of the appointment. The promises of Mr. Pierce, he says, were to support him (Geary) with the United States army, the militia, and the treasury, if necessary; but instead of receiving this aid either in men or money, from the President, he has paid twelve thousand dollars out of his own pocket for the support of his administration, and with regard to military support, he has even been refused a detachment of two companies of cavalry, for which he applied under the most urgent eircumstances, and received the haughty answer from the officer in command, that the army of the United States was not employed to protect him. In addition, the judiciary of the territory, as well as the military of the Government, refused him support. Judge Lecompte thwarted him on all occasions, and having the means to execute his judicial decrees, was enabled to overrule him in every important measure. Again, throughout his every important measure. Again, throughout his whole official career, he has been an object of hatred to an organized and sworn band of conspirators in the territory. He states that fifty men were under oath from the day he entered the country until he left it, to assassinate him, provided his official career should deviate from that course which they had marked out deviate from that course which they had marked out for him. His life thus in constant jeopardy; the judiciary bitterly opposed to him; the military inac-tive and stubborn, and the government without money or means of any kind, he was necessarily compelled to decline. The Governor says he regrets the step he was obliged to take most sincerely, and feels confident that had he received the assistance promised him, he could have administered the affairs of the territory in a manner acceptable to the honest settlers of both sides.

In relation to the robberies, arsons, and murders which have taken place in Kansas, the Governor says

In relation to the robberies, arsons, and murders which have taken place in Kansas, the Governor says the half has not yet been told.

Speaking of the insult offered him, which led to the death of Sherrard, the Governor gave a detailed account of the transaction, and the manner in which his assassination had been previously planned. His own firmness, however, prevented its execution. Sherrard, the Governor states, with three others, waylaid him in the hall of the Legislature. He discovered them, and knew their purpose, and when Sherrard syoke to him he made no reply, but passed on, when Sherrard spat upon his back several times. As soon as these facts became known a public meeting was held, composed principally of pro-slavery men, for the purpose of denouncing the act. It was at this meeting that Sherrard was shot.

When the resolutions were read, Sherrard said that any person who endersed them "was a liar, a coward, and a seoundrel." Mr. Shepperd then rose and stated that he endorsed them, and was neither a liar, scoundrel nor coward. Sherrard then drew his revolver and commenced shooting at Shepperd, who received three balls in his body. Mr. S. then snapped a pistol at Sherrard, but it failing fire, he rushed upon him and struck him with his weapon. They were separated, and Sherrard then drew another pistol and advanced upon Jones, whom he had previously insulted because he was a member of the pistol and advanced upon Jones, whom he had previously insulted because he was a member of the Governor's household. Jones, perceiving his danger, drew a pistol in self-defence; a number of shots were then fired at the same time, and Sherrard fell.

Among other things, the Governor complains most bitterly of the annoyances which he suffered in the obstruction and auxiliation of his suffered in the obstruction and mutilation of his correspondence. The mail bags, he says, were constantly opened, and all communications to and from him systematically overhauled, and, if objectionable, abstracted. Mr. McClain, chief clerk in the Surveyor General's office, boasted of the fact, and stated that he himself had destroyed and surpressed two hundred of self had destroyed and suppressed two bushels of mail matter.

The above is merely an abstract of the Governor's statements. There are a multitude of interesting details which we are compelled to omit.

DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET, LOUISVILLE, March 19. 5 Money still continues scarce. This, together with high freights and a low river, operate against the market. Some of the brokers were selling Eastern exchange yesterday to their customers at 1/2 prem., which is also the bank rate: ote 1/2@3/4 prem. New Orleans is very dull, and we ntinue to quote it par@1/2 prem.

In provisions, a sale of 234 bbls mess pork evening before ast and another of 600 bbls yesterday at $22. Clear bacon sides are scarce and some sales have been made at an advance, but the regular dealers charge previous rates. Sales of 12 casks clear sides at 12%c, packages extra, 8 casks at 12%c packed, some 14 casks ribbed and clear sides at 11% and 12c, packages extra, and 11 casks plain hams at 111/c and 126, packages extra, and 11 cashs plain ham at 11/26; shoulders we quote at 9½c. Some little meat in from the country which sold at previous prices—9, 11, and 11/26. Sales of 58 hhds tobacco—1 hhd scraps at $5, 6 at $7@$7 95, 15 at $8@$8 95, 10 at $9@$9 95, 8 at $10@$10 80, 6 at $11@$11 80, 5 at $12 55@$12 90, 2 at $13 and $13 50, 3 at $14@$14 50, and 2 at $15 and $16.

Sat $14@$14 50, and 2 at $15 and $16.

Grocery market very quiet. Sales of 30 hhds sugar at 11@11½c. Nothing was done in molasses, and in coffee small sales only were made at 11½@11½c. A dispatch from New Orleans, dated on the 17th, says: "Sugar has advanced ½c, and the market bare of stock. Molasses dull. Coffee brisk. Rice 5c."

In flour only small sales at $5 30@$5 50. Wheat $1 10 @$1 15. Corn is selling from store at 60c and oats at 5 Dealers offer 50c for corn and 45c for oats in round lots.

Hay is retailing from store at $22@$33 $\text{#}$ ton.

We continue to quote raw whisky at 23c. A sale of 75 bbls copper-distilled to the trade at 65c, 4 mos. Candles are active. Sales of star at 26@28c, and 350 bx hard-pressed tallow at 13c. A sale of 100 bbls tallow at 9%. Sales of 400 green hides from store at 8c, usual commission added, and 150 dry-salted city-cured at 17c. Sales of 110 bales Cannelton sheetings and 50 bales No. 1 batting during the last two days at 936 and 16c. A sale of 10 bales jeans and linseys at 29 and 39c, and 15 bales at 30 and 40c, 6 mos. Shipments to Wheeling at 20c 7 hundred. To Pittsbu we quote 25c. To New Orleans 40c & hundred for pound freight and $1 $\mathcal{B}$ bbl for pork. To St. Louis 40c $\mathcal{B}$ 100.

CINCINNATI, March 18, P. M. Flour is unchanged, with a moderate local demand at $5.685 10; receipts not so large. Whisky is steady and in good demand at 23c. Provisions closed very dull, mess pork and shoulders were offered freely at yesterday's rates out finding buyers; the only transaction heard of was 50 hhds bacon shoulders delivered in April at 916c, but subsequently offered for May delivery at 91/4c, including pack ages. Business is generally brisk.

NEW YORK, March 18, P. M. Cotton market firm, with sales of 4,000 bales at 14½c for Orleans middling and 13¾c for upland middling. Flour is heavy—sales of 14,000 bbls at $6@6 15 for common to good State and $6 30@$6 75 for Ohio. Wheat unsettled—sales of 3,500 bush. Corn is heavy and 1c lower both for mixed and white—sales of 36,000 bush. Provisions steady—hams 11½c, shoulders 9½c, dressed hogs 9½c. Butter 17@22c. Whisky has declined to 26c. Tallow 12½c. Sugar is firm. At an auction sale to-day teas went off at a decline of 1@2c 7 th. Freights firmer.

Stocks are firmer—Chicago and Rock Island 105½, Illinois Central 137, Michigan Southern 73½, New York Centra 89, Pennsylvania Coal Company 964, Erie 534, Reading 894, Cleveland and Toledo 734, and Cleveland and Pittsburg 54%, Michigan Central 96%, Milwaukee and Missis sippi 73, Canton 22%, Galena and Chicago 104.

NEW YORK CATTLE MARKET, March 18. Beef cattle—sales to-day of 3,500 head, the market heavy and prices %@1c lower, with sales at $9@$11 50 $9 100 ibs Sheep firm, with sales of 5,500 head. Swine steady of 2,500 head; all qualities are slightly lower, with sales at 7@8c for corn-fed.

CINCINNATI CATTLE MARKET, March 18. Hogs are in good demand at $6066 25 $2 cvt. gross. Beef cattle are very scarce, and the quality inferior; prices are a shade higher, and we now quote $3.75@$5 50 $2 cvt. gross. Sheep range from $6@$5 50, and in good demand.

Sr. Louis, March 17, P. M. Hemp.—Firm; sales of 30 bales tow at $115, 290 bales un-ressed hemp, private; 32 bales prime at $140, and 10 bales noice at $145. Tobacco—At Planters' warehouse 10 hhds at $12.
